

FIRST DAY OF THE CHAUTAUQUA

Mrs. Maggie Tout Browning Favors Those Present With a Solo and Is Followed by Dr. Iva Landwith in a Lecture—First Session Is Voted a Success—Many Expected to Be in Attendance From the Outside—30 Camps in the Park Occupied

With 325 persons in attendance, the third annual session of the Utah Chautauqua assembly was opened shortly after 2 o'clock this afternoon at Glenwood park, which will be Chautauqua park for ten days. Without any formalities, whatever, the first event on the long program began with a prelude selection by Mrs. Maggie Tout Browning. Following the selection and encore, Dr. Iva Landwith, president of the Ward-Belmont college of Nashville, Tenn., began his famous lecture, "Level Best Living."

The number at the opening meeting was larger than at any of the two preceding openings and the directors take the increased attendance as an omen predicting even greater success for this season than in the past.

There are about thirty camps in the park occupied by those who wish to be on the grounds during the entire ten days. It is expected that others will adopt the camping system before Monday.

As in the past, the pavilion is used as the main lecture hall, while the round table talks will be held throughout the grove. The various clubs will also meet under the trees.

Mrs. Ida B. Cole, field secretary of the Chautauqua institution of Chautauqua, N. Y., is scheduled to open the round table talks at 5 o'clock this afternoon. The various clubs are also being organized today.

At 8 o'clock tonight, Mrs. Browning will again open the meeting with a vocal selection and Dr. Landwith will deliver his second lecture, "Plantation and Philosophy."

Judging by the number of tickets sold, more interest has been aroused in the Chautauqua this season than ever before. Rates have been offered on railroads to those desiring to attend the session and educators and others interested in Chautauqua work are arriving from various parts of the state. It is estimated that there will be more than 100 visitors remain in Ogden during the session and, on special occasions, the number is expected to increase greatly. Because of the many who are unable to leave their work before 6 o'clock, the attendance during the evening meetings will be much larger than in the mornings and afternoons.

Beginning tomorrow morning, Miss Lucille Thurman will open the Children's Chautauqua. W. L. Underwood will supervise the play. Miss Thurman is the physical director in the Ogden schools and Mr. Underwood is the play supervisor. Under their direction, the children will be taught games that will please them and at the same time give them valuable physical exercise.

While every day is to be a feature day, special efforts have been taken to have July 24, Pioneer day, the biggest of the ten. The pageant planned and the performance of "Midsummer Night's Dream" will be the features. With each ward assigned a representative float for the pageant, which will parade the principal streets, and with each ward determined to produce the most elaborate float, the parade promises to be a great success. It is proposed that the whole county unite in making this feature, as well as the entire day, one never to be forgotten as commemorative of the achievements of the pioneers. As each ward of the county will be represented in the parade, there will be large numbers come to the city from the various communities of Weber county.

AUTO PARTY IS COMING TO OGDEN

To meet the Indiana automobile tourists and pilot them from Provo to Ogden, a committee of automobilists left Ogden at 9 o'clock this morning. The local people will remain with the Hoosiers in Salt Lake and will accompany them from Salt Lake to Ogden tomorrow morning. In the pilot cars were Dr. and Mrs. H. M. Rowe, Mr. and Mrs. A. P. Bigelow, Mr. and Mrs. R. E. Bristol, Mr. and Mrs. M. S. Browning, Chairman Skeen of the Weber county commissioners, and others. The machines were decorated fittingly with Ogden pennants and the visiting automobilists will have no difficulty in discovering who strangers are.

The secretary of the Ogden Publicity bureau, wired the Weber club this morning that the transcontinental tourists have decided to accept the invitation of the club and spend Saturday in Ogden and the canyon even though they must cut down by several hours their stay in Salt Lake. The local club men consider this a victory for Ogden. Because of the bad road conditions on the Midland trail, the party is a day behind schedule and the information was given out by the automobilists that the date in Ogden would probably be cancelled. They were induced to change their plans.

The party left Provo this afternoon and will arrive in Salt Lake this evening where they will be entertained by the Salt Lake Commercial club. Tomorrow forenoon they will leave Salt Lake for Ogden.

Arrangements have been carefully made for the program here. Upon receiving a telephone call from Salt Lake to the effect that the tourists have left that city, the automobile owners of Ogden who are to meet the visitors at the county line, will be ready to start. Mayor A. G. Fell has been invited to act as pilot for the party from the county line back to the Weber club. Judge J. A. Howell will be marshal of the of the day. Upon him will fall the duties of lining up the Ogden automobiles to await the order to start from Secretary I. L. Reynolds of the Weber club.

Upon the arrival of the large party in the city, the first stop will be made at the Weber club, where a short reception in honor of the Indiana people will be held. Following the reception, the visitors and Ogden automobilists will take a run through Ogden canyon to Huntsville, returning to the Hermitage where a picnic lunch will be served.

The following are on the reception committee: S. W. Badson, W. D. Brown, M. S. Browning, T. Samuel Browning, J. P. Casey, F. M. Driggs, A. G. Fell, Frank Francis, A. R. Heywood, J. A. Howell, Arthur Kuhn and J. C. Nye.

The following Associated Press dispatch was received:

Provo, Utah, July 18.—A continuous ovation greeted the Indiana automobile party, which is following the route of the new transcontinental highway to California, on their trip through Utah today. Thirteen miles east of here they were met by Governor Spry and a large party from Salt Lake and other towns. At Spanish Fork and Springville reception committees received them with fruit and flowers.

The tourists were guests of the Provo Midland Trail association at luncheon, leaving this afternoon for Salt Lake where they will arrive before night.

VAN QUILTS THE LOCAL BALL TEAM

"Hinky" Van, Ogden's first baseman for the greater part of last season and the holder of the position up until about three weeks ago, has been released. His contract with the Ogden team was cancelled last night, following the failure of the management to trade him for Carman of the Missoula or others that have not been mentioned for publication.

Van said today that he is to play the remainder of the week with Missoula in Ogden, after which he intends to leave for his home in California.

While the team was on its northern trip, the Ogden club had an opportunity to trade Van for Carman and Basse of Missoula. The offer was refused as the management wished to give Van a chance in the field, where he asked to play, believing that his hitting would pick up. In the first eight games Ogden has played, following the return of Ogden, Van's batting percentage has been .310.

BOOSTER DAY AT THE BALL GROUNDS

Booster's day at the Glenwood park ball grounds will be the opening day of the series with Helena, July 29, if the plans of the baseball directors mature.

Secretary Angus Kennedy has received from Manager Shay of the Vigilantes a letter agreeing to the percentage his team will get from the gate receipts and the secretary is now waiting President E. C. Mulrooney's sanction of the plans. It is expected that the league president will be heard from favorably today or tomorrow.

The Ogden day would have been held during the series with Great Falls but the management, out of respect to the Chautauqua people, decided to postpone the event one week.

Having decided upon a definite date, the committee in charge of the work will immediately plan to make the day a big success from every standpoint. In the game this afternoon, which did not begin until 4 o'clock because of the Chautauqua lecture, Sinclair and Maloney are the opposing pitchers.

"Learn One Thing Every Day" No. 5. JOHN SMITH

Copyright, 1913, by The Associated Newspaper School, Inc.

Arms and feet bound with buckskin ropes, the prisoner showed no fear. The clear gray eyes, set in his bronzed face, watched with apparent unconcern the grunting savages quit their council and approach him with the grin of fierce satisfaction on their faces. Nor did he wince when each savage as he passed cut him with a stinging lash. But now the moment had come. Tomahawk in hand, the chief warrior came over to the kneeling Englishman, while the surrounding warriors watched for a sign of weakening. The hatchet was raised; the kneeling man was inwardly bidding farewell to the fair world about him. Suddenly quick as a panther, there sprang through the circle Indians the chief's daughter. She threw herself upon the captive's neck and talked in her soft guttural fast and vehement. Her plea was successful; for the tomahawk was lowered and the captive freed. Thus, according to the old told story, did the white man save the life of John Smith, captain and governor of the colony of Virginia.

Born in 1579, John Smith was the eldest son of a tenant farmer in Lincolshire, England, and early showed over for adventure. He made a trip to France became a soldier under Henry IV of that country, and then to Holland. Returning, he erected a hut of boughs near a pretty stream in the country, and stayed there reading the art of war and the life of Marcus Aurelius. Then along came a man who fired his desire to go against the Turks. Starting for America, he was thrown into the sea as a heretic by the pilgrims on board; managed to swim to an uninhabited island, whence he was rescued by a vessel bound for Egypt. Finally reached Hungary and entered the emperor's service against the Turks. In the presence of both, he was champion of the Christians, as he beheld three Turks in one. In 1602 he was left wounded on field, captured, and sent to Constantinople as a slave. There a princess fell in love with him. Fearing her mother's vengeance against Smith, she sent him to her brother Timor in Tataria. Timor, suspecting the truth, put iron on him, clothed him in haircloth, and made him a slave in his harvest field.

One day the Englishman slew Timor, put on his clothes, hid the body, mounted his horse, and escaped, coming at last to Germany, where the Prince of Hungary met him and rewarded him for his feat against the Turks. Thence he wandered through Germany, France, Spain, Morocco and back to England.

In 1606, with three vessels and 105 men, he set out to establish a colony in Virginia, where Raleigh's colonies had perished. The little fleet was blown into Chesapeake bay, and finally found the James river. Jamestown was founded May 13, 1607. Privations followed—food was scarce; Indians menaced; sickness appeared. Smith was everywhere, hunting, fighting with the Indians, bartering for food. New colonists coming, plotted against his life. In his boat asleep, they set fire to his powder. He was terribly burned, and jumping into the water was nearly drowned. He was sent home in 1609, and never returned. When contemplating a history of the sea, Smith died in 1632 and was buried in St. Sepulchre's, London.

Every day a different human interest story will appear in the Standard. You can get a beautiful intaglio reproduction of the above picture, with five others, equally attractive, 7x9 1-2 inches in size, with this week's "Mentor." ## FELL BETWEEN INSPECTORS OF THE CARS OF A TRAIN GOVERNMENT ARE HERE

Mrs. Daniel Conway of 247 Twenty-eighth street was badly bruised and sustained a severe nervous shock at 10:55 o'clock last night, when she fell from the step of a Bamberger car she was entering at Lagoon and fell between two cars. Reports today are to the effect that, though the injuries are not serious, she will be confined to her bed a day or so.

When Mrs. Conway fell there were friends near who lifted her to the car and made her as comfortable as possible during the ride to Ogden. Part of the time she was only semiconscious. Upon arrival here, she was taken to the Fulton pharmacy, where Dr. T. C. Doran gave attention and had her removed to her home.

Still further developments are promised in the liquor cases that have occupied so much of Judge Reeder's police court session lately. Two government inspectors are in the city for the purpose of discovering if the alleged illegal sellers of intoxicating liquors in rooming houses of Ogden have taken the precaution to secure the government licenses required. The police believe that in two instances that have come to their attention, there were no government revenue licenses in sight.

The two federal inspectors were in court this morning, but the trial of the two women, continued from yesterday, was not taken up, owing to the absence of the attorney for the defense.
